Best speakers of 2023 above £3000

It's their overall blend of abilities that make them the most accomplished speakers that I've heard, this year, for the money...

The WINDSOR EARL is Praised with a 'Highly Recommended Award'

"Castle are back in Britain with a bang! ...their beauty runs more than skin deep, they sound big, open and dynamic. The Earls deliver solid bass, a rich and smooth midrange, whilst remaining informative and refined on top."

Hi-Fi News Outstanding Product

The Castle Windsor Dukes are a masterclass in speaker design by Karl-Heinz Fink and the IAG team. Robustly made and beautifully finished, they turn in an impeccable performance across all genres of music. If you think floorstanders are king but space dictates you need standmounts, then listening to these loudspeakers will more than turn your head. They've certainly converted me.

What Hi-Fi? (UK) -
Castle Windsor Series loudspeakers are born and bred in Britain

WHAT HI-FI?

The Castle Windsor Series is a new range of loudspeakers that comprises the Duke and Earl models. They're the first Castle speakers for many years to be UK-made – taking advantage of parent company IAG's new 9000 square foot production facility in Huntingdon – with every critical part developed and manufactured in-house. But that doesn't mean they've cut any corners.

What Hi-Fi? (UK) -
How Castle is bringing UK-made
hi-fi back into the spotlight

WHAT HI-FI?

Castle suggests that the Windsor speakers evoke the golden age of hi-fi, a sentiment that fits perfectly with the return of manufacturing to the brand's country of birth. Castle's coming home, it could be said, and the results are wonderful to hear.
